

Success at Codman

In the 2007-2008 school year, Codman Academy Public Charter School in Boston, chose Apangea Learning Math as their supplemental solution to help raise test scores on their state assessment.

Previously, Codman's MCAS average was significantly below the state average. The ever increasing level of difficulty on the MCAS made it challenging for Codman to come close to the State average. However, Codman exceeded the Massachusetts state average in just one year. 73% of Codman students demonstrated proficiency on the 2008 MCAS.

Codman Academy has continued their Apangea Learning Math program into the 2008-2009 School Year. All plans have been expertly lead by Kari Abdal-Khallaq, Math Special Education Teacher and Thabiti Brown, Principal. We would like to thank them for their support in operating an effective program.

38% improvement in Codman students who scored proficient or advanced on their MCAS

Percentage of students who scored advanced or proficient on the MACAS.

Teachable Moments at Codman Academy

In addition to school-day activity, Codman students have decided to work on Math during their own time – yes, nights and weekends and even holidays! Codman students have added the equivalent of more than 68 additional math classes so far this year, using the unique online Math tutoring program away from school. Evenings and weekends—on their own time.

Evening Hours:	46
Weekend Hours:	22
Tutor Interventions:	3,783

Holiday Math-A-Thon

The Holidays are a great time for doing math. Just in time for the winter break, the 2nd Annual Holiday Math-A-Thon is officially kicked off! Parents and teachers alike should know that all students working over break will be eligible for cool prizes and special awards, just for doing math. Prizes include Nintendo DS systems, iPod Shuffles, and $50 Best Buy gift cards. Here's the catch: They must pass their courses in order for it to count so they need to pay extra attention to their quizzes!

Please joins us in welcoming the newest New England Apangea Learning District!

Brockton Public Schools, MA
East Hartford Public School, CT